Reflections on the Christmas Story

PEACE ON EARTH (Luke 2:14) The song of the angels to the shepherds on that first Christmas eve was one of peace. That same message is for those in the 21st century who have received the Lord's salvation in the person of Jesus Christ. We need His peace today more than ever!

GOOD WILL TO MEN (Luke 2:14) God's perfect will for mankind is always good. He created us to live the abundant life that is found only in His sovereign will. When our will becomes His will, life is good!

FAVOR WITH GOD (Luke 1:30, 48) "You have found favor with God!" Can there be any greater comfort than hearing these words? Even Jesus grew in favor with the Father. (Luke 2:52) Sensing God's favor is a reality when we submit our lives to Him.

GOOD NEWS (Luke 2:10) This good news (gospel) that was declared to the shepherds is the same good news that Paul proclaimed to be the power of God unto salvation. (Romans 1:16) It is salvation brought to us in the birth of a babe in Bethlehem.

GREAT JOY (Matt 2:10, Luke 2:10) This great joy evokes a response that wells up from deep within one's soul. It may be a joyful Hallelujah; a sweet song from the heart; or a compulsion to seek out the source of such joy to offer a gift of praise and honor!

THE LORD IS WITH YOU, EMMANUEL (Matt 1:23) God became man! God in human form! The Sovereign Lord of the universe visits His creation and makes everything right. The proclamation that is embodied in the name Emmanuel gives us hope that we will always be with Him.

BLESSED (Luke 1:48) Mary understood what a blessing it was to be the mother of God's promise. As she treasured the moments in her heart as Jesus grew in wisdom and stature, she knew the blessing that only comes from above. The Psalmist reminds us of the source of that blessing:

The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.

For He hath founded it upon the seas and established it upon the floods.

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Or who shall stand in his holy place?

He that hath cleans hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully.

He shall receive the blessing from the Lord and righteousness from the God of his salvation.

(Psalm 24:1-5 KJV)

My prayer for you this Christmas is that you will know the joy, the peace, the blessing and the favor of God.

Jimmy Stewart, State Director of Evangelism and Church Development

A Look Ahead

Christmas always brings great memories. This year, I pray, will be even more memorable as families and churches gather and people return to services and are given the real reason for the season. That is something to celebrate.

The first of the year will be upon us and we look forward to our State Evangelism Conference. I pray it will be extra special and a delight for all who attend. We are doing several things different this year. First, it may be a little easier to access for those that live in Wasilla and Palmer since First Baptist Church, Eagle River, will be our host church. I am excited they are hosting us. Another change is the timing during the week. We are doing this year's conference Thursday night and all day Friday. It would be great if people could join us for the whole time and hopefully the change in the week might affect people's ability to attend. We will be providing meals on Friday to make it a little easier for all who attend. We do ask that you pre-register. We will set up registration on our website, which will open mid-December.

Our guests to our conference are always a blessing. The presenters last year were leaders from our state. It was a great time. This year, the team of leaders is coming from outside Alaska. Chad Garrison is pastor of Calvary Baptist in Lake Havasu City, AZ. He has led the church since 1992 and guided them to engage the community. It has led to tremendous growth. He is an easy going guy who loves his people and teaches them to focus outward. He will preach and share their strategy of creating a culture that reaches out to the community. Kirk Jones is the Lead Pastor of Fellowship Church in Prairieville, LA. He and his wife, Wendy, moved to Prairieville to start Fellowship Church in 2001. During these 20 years Fellowship Church has grown from a vision and dream into a dynamic church. He will share about using small groups to help grow this church to the size they are today. Wendy will lead a special time during the breakout sessions for ladies. Daniel Wilson, State Evangelism Director for the Alabama Baptist Convention, will challenge us in our evangelism priorities for this conference. Marcel Joseph from 3 Circle Church in Mobile, AL. will bring a worship team to lead us in some vibrant music and workshops for the worship leaders in our state. So in the two days of our conference we will have great worship and fellowship, great food, wonderful preaching, and breakouts for pastors, worship leaders, and ladies. The date of our conference this year is February 3-4. Again, we are excited and grateful for First Baptist Church, Eagle River. Their team will host and help with all the meals. I am looking forward to this time with our leaders and lay people. I pray you will be able to join us. Please register on our Alaska Baptist Resource Network webpage, beginning mid-December.

First Person: I'm asking for it

In this season, when I am meeting with many state conventions and associations, God has directed me to Romans 10:8-15. Paul's words are a great reminder of why God still has us on earth and why the IMB still has a job to do. Our mission is to serve Southern Baptists in carrying out the Great Commission to make disciples of all nations.

For 176 years, Southern Baptists have sent missionaries to proclaim the gospel of hope among the nations through the IMB. While we have work in nearly every country of the world, we prioritize getting the gospel to those who have yet to hear. In fact, 91% of our IMB missionary teams are engaging the unreached and the overwhelming majority of IMB financial resources are spent among the unreached.

That is especially important right now. Romans 10:14 reminds us of the critical need for our work. Paul asks, "And how are they to believe in him of whom they have never heard? And how are they to hear without someone preaching?"

We live in a world with more lost people alive today that at any time in human history. More lost people will die today and enter hell than on any day in human history. And, unlike at any time in human history, people born in past 100 years have had the advantage of air travel, meaning there are few peoples and places in the world we cannot reach in a handful of days at most.

Yet, of the 11,946 people groups that have been numbered around the world, 7,317 remain unreached by the common definition of unreached meaning that less than 2% of the people group are evangelical Christian. And 3,179 of the world's people groups remain unengaged with the gospel, meaning there was likely no church where a lost man or woman could have gone this past week to hear the gospel preached and no missionary they might meet in the village.

When John, from his prison cell, was given a vision from God and allowed to peer into heaven, he wrote in Revelation 7:9: "After this I looked, and behold, a great multitude that no one could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands...." No nation, tribe, people or language will be without representation before the throne. Those 3,179 people groups unreached and unengaged? They will be there. But in order for them to get there, we must get to them.

We are yet here in this broken and sinful world where cancer robs our cradles and Covid robs our church roles, where abortion robs the womb, Communism robs churches of their pastors as they are imprisoned or simply disappear, racism robs human dignity, and drug addiction robs children of their mommies and daddies. We are yet here because the great multitude is not yet there, standing before the throne and before the lamb. Until every nation, all tribes, peoples and languages are represented in that great multitude, the vision of heaven is yet unfulfilled and the mission of the church on earth remains.

"How are they to believe in him of whom they have never heard? And how are they to hear without someone preaching?" Why are we still here? John's vision and Paul's letter to the church at Rome echo that our purpose for remaining on earth is to preach the gospel. And preach the gospel we must for, as Paul makes clear, the gospel is an exclusive message for an exclusive Kingdom. While every nation, tribe, people and language will be represented in the great multitude of heaven, every person from every nation, tribe, people, and language will not be there. Only those who have heard and believed the gospel.

As Paul continues, he asks another question in Romans 10:15, a question that I cannot, as the IMB president, pass over. Paul asks, "And how are they to preach unless they are sent?" As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the good news!"

Thank God for those who send missionaries. The prayers and financial partnership of Southern Baptists make possible our work on the front lines of lostness, getting the gospel to the unreached and the unengaged.

The beautiful feet of our missionaries walk in a prison in Central Asia. Those feet walk in a prison not because they are serving time. Rather, they go there voluntarily to serve women and children through a medical clinic and a preschool in a women's prison. Why would one need a preschool in a women's prison? Because, in this particular country, women sentenced to prison who have children under the age of six are required to take their children with them to prison and care for those children themselves in prison. And there, in prison, our personnel are showing the love of Jesus as they care for the needs of mothers and children and also sharing about the One who died to give us freedom from the eternal bondage of sin. Beautiful feet bringing good news.

The beautiful feet of our sent ones walk through refugee camps and crowded city streets. They wade through open sewers in the slums. Those same feet wade into the rivers and the ocean surf to baptize those who have heard and believed the gospel they preach. Those feet trek through the mountains to isolated villages and walk hundreds of jetways as they go where the lost are to be found.

As I think about our mission force, a scenario comes to mind. What if our country cut its military force by 40%? We would go from 1.3 million troops to barely more than 800,000. Can you imagine, in today's world of threats and unrest, the U.S. cutting its military ranks by nearly half? Thankfully that is not happening.

But let me share another scenario with you. This one, unfortunately, is true. Between the years 2008-2018, Southern Baptists cut our frontline missionary force by 40%.

Those of us who have been in a Southern Baptist church since at least 2008 should be sobered by the fact that gospel troops have been cut by nearly half on our watch. Unlike at any time in human history, we have the capacity to reach almost anyone anywhere in a matter of days. Yet, on our watch, 40% of our troops have been discharged.

In my first year as IMB president, I met a Mississippi pastor who told me this: "Mr. President, everything the IMB needs – more missionaries and more money – is in our churches. But you're going to have to ask for it."

Well, I'm asking for it. Thanks to the growing generosity of Southern Baptists, and a great year in the financial markets, we just had the best financial year in the history of the IMB. We are still digging out of three decades of financial decline but, thankfully, the IMB is growing again. We aren't discharging soldiers; we're calling up reinforcements. We have a target of seeing the number of frontline missionaries grow by 500 over the next 5 years. And here's what we need to do right now: we need to deliver the draft notice. We need to get the word out. We need to call out the called and encourage every pastor and preacher across the SBC to call out the called.

Now is not the time to retreat. The need has never been greater. Now is the time to send more of those beautiful feet to the nations.

But we have another ask. The IMB did not reduce its force because someone on our research team told past IMB presidents that the most important work in the universe, the work of getting the gospel to the nations, was almost done and we wouldn't need as many missionaries or stateside staff. The IMB brought more than 2,000 missionaries home over a ten year period and cut dozens of stateside jobs because we simply could not afford to keep them.

Since the IMB is the missionary sending agency of Southern Baptists, one might conclude that Southern Baptists are broke. Let me assure you, Southern Baptists are not financially broke. Well, maybe Southern Baptists have lost their heart for the nations. I know that's not the case either. How do I know Southern Baptists aren't broke and they still have a heart that beats for the nations? I know these things because Southern Baptists spend over $1 billion every year on work overseas that isn't Baptist work. That's a verifiable number and it is, in fact, a very conservative estimate.

So, what has happened? To be candid, I think the biggest problem was not a Southern Baptist problem. It has been an IMB problem. It is a relationship problem. And it is not a problem of churches relating to the IMB. It's been a problem of the IMB failing to relate to churches. We are working hard every day to fix that problem.

Which brings me back to a bold statement from a Mississippi Baptist pastor. I'm asking Southern Baptists for more money, the money it will take to support those 500 more missionaries. We are asking churches that don't give to the Lottie offering to start giving. We are asking those who do give to give more. We are building relationships with individual donors and looking for more.

Aren't you thankful for Baptist feet? I'm thankful for the Baptist feet of a couple of deacons that climbed the hill and stepped up on the porch of a little rental house at 210 Provins Street and invited a single dad in his late 20s to come to church and bring those 3 boys he was raising on his own with him. I'm thankful for the feet of a Baptist pastor who, some years later, stepped up on that same porch and then walked into our living room and shared the gospel with my brothers and me. I'm thankful for that same pair of feet that put on a pair of old wading boots and walked down into a baptistry to baptize my two brothers and me. You'd have an IMB president regardless but, if not for those feet, you wouldn't have this one.

Two mothers and their children pause for a photo. Many families are hearing the gospel for the first time in a Southeast Asian village where IMB workers are sharing the gospel

As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the good news!" With so many yet to hear, we still have work to do. God bless you as you do that work today. Thank you for your partnership with the IMB as we, together, send beautiful feet to preach the good news to every nation, tribe, people and language!

MILEPOST MOMENTS

The staff of the Alaska Baptist Resource Network reserves the right to edit submitted information for content and space.

Grandview Baptist Church had 400 children (plus parents) at the trunk or treat, and handed out over 300 Bibles! Kids also participated in a scavenger hunt that shared the gospel.

The Alabama Board of Missions and Alaska Baptist Resource Network celebrated their partnership at the Alabama Baptist Convention in November. An award was presented to Jamie Baldwin of Alabama for his assistance with revitalization of Liberty Church in Craig, Alaska.
