What is the story?

Once again that time of Christmas is here and along with the flurry of activities and the onset of winter, comes the expectation for the reason we celebrate this magnificent event. Jesus Christ, the Son of God came to earth as a mortal man without giving up his divinity. His coming demonstrates the relentless love of the heavenly Father for those whom He created!

In a world today that is marching swiftly in a direction that denies the existence of God, people are desperate to find meaning in life. Those who consider themselves to be enlightened or woke make every effort to take others along with them in their misinformed perceptions. There is a hole in their soul they are searching to fill. Those who know the love of a Heavenly Father and His Son who came to earth, have discovered that missing piece that only God can fill.

Christmas offers us the perfect opportunity to share a message of hope, peace, joy, and love that is wrapped up in the birth of a child in Bethlehem. While it is an ancient story and stands at the fulcrum of time and history, the miracle of Christmas is as real today as it was 2000 years ago. What is that story?

A Story of Hope: Come, Thou long expected Jesus

Romans 12:12 Rejoice in hope; be patient in affliction; be persistent in prayer.

Come, Thou long expected Jesus, Born to set Thy people free;
From our fears and sins release us, Let us find our rest in Thee.
Israel's strength and consolation, Hope of all the earth Thou art;
Dear desire of every nation, Joy of every longing heart.

A Story of Joy: Joy to the World

John 17:13 "Now I am coming to you, and I speak these things in the world so that they may have my joy completed in them."

Joy to the world, the Lord is come, Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room, and heav'n and nature sing;
Yes, heav'n and nature sing, and heav'n and heav'n and nature sing.

A Story of Peace: It Came Upon the Midnight Clear
Luke 2:14 "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

It came upon the midnight clear, that glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth, to touch their harps of gold;
"Peace on the earth, good will to men" from heaven's all-gracious King.
The world in solemn stillness lay to hear the angels sing.

A Story of Love: Love Came Down at Christmas

John 3:16 For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him, shall not perish, but have everlasting life.

Love came down at Christmas, love all lovely, love divine;
Love was born at Christmas; Star and angel gave the sign.
Love shall be our token; Love be yours and love be mine;
Love to God and all men, love for plea and gift and sign.

Change

The month of January is always a great month here in Alaska. Some who don't live here might not believe me. People outside of our world think that it is too cold and too dark. Some don't like all the snow and, depending upon where you live in this big state, the dark might be an issue. To set the record straight, we are not dark all the time in the winter months. In Anchorage we get about 6.5 hours of light each day in January. Let me get really specific. On January 1, 2022, we had 5:40 hours of daylight with another 2:01 hours of civil twilight. That means there is clear daylight for the almost 6 hours of the day with about 30 more minutes of good light on a clear day. At the end of the month, it changes drastically. On January 31, 2022, there as 7:44 hours of daylight with another 1:40 hours of civil twilight. Daylight has increased two hours a day in this one month. By the time you get to the middle of March, we are equal to where I use to live in America, Atlanta, in terms of the amount of light. Then from there, we obliterate the light quantity scale. We actually get more light in a year here in Anchorage than where I grew up. That is surprising. People say they don't like change, but this is one change that Alaskans like. January brings change in that we see the light increase and may see a good bump in temperatures.

Change is coming this year to our State Evangelism Conference. We want to give more church members an opportunity to attend and experience our conference. This year we will have a one-day conference in four locations. First Baptist Church, Anchorage; First Baptist Church, Palmer; Anchor of Hope Church, Kenai; and University Baptist Church, Fairbanks, will host these events. The dates are January 30, 31, Feb 2, 3 , respectively. The day-long conferences will start at noon with lunch. Two plenary sessions will follow lunch with speakers and worship. We will have breakouts before dinner. After dinner, the final plenary session will end around 8:15.

We have three main speakers. JJ Washington is from the North American Mission Board. He recently became the new National Director of Personal Evangelism. He was the state leader in Georgia and comes to the board with much experience. Mike Napier, and his wife, Cynthia, will join us from New Mexico. He is the pastor of First Baptist, Aztec, where his church has made evangelism a priority. I know you will be blessed to hear him share all God has done through the church. Finally, Jim Hamilton, is pastor at Anchor of Hope Church in Kenai. Jim has experience pastoring here in Alaska reaching the lost. He has a lot to share about how his church is reaching to their community.
I encourage pastors in our state to bring their leaders and members to these events. My hope is that we will have a good attendance at each location. We will provide meals and a great program. Each speaker will lead a breakout. There will also be a women's breakout. The overall schedule will look as follows:

Noon Lunch
(Please register. Meal registration opens December 1.)
1:15 pm Session 1
2:45 pm Break
3:00 pm Session 2
4:00 pm Breakouts
5:00 pm Dinner
(Please register. Meal registration opens December 1.)
6:00 pm Session 3
8:15 pm Adjourn
We are asking you or your individual members to register to help us prepare for meals and programs. You will find this on our website under news and events. I am looking forward to a great conference in four locations. I am especially praying the theme "and he gave some as evangelists" from Ephesians 4:11 will be inspirational. I believe we will encourage all in learning from some great evangelistic leaders and will inspire our people to share their faith and be more evangelistic as a church. Let's flood our conference with people in every location.

Also, let's remember, the greatest change anyone can experience is the change that comes from our relationship with Jesus. Colossians 1:13-14 (HCSB) "He has rescued us from the domain of darkness and transferred us into the kingdom of the Son He loves. We have redemption, the forgiveness of sins, in Him. People experience change from their darkened lives and see light through a life redeemed."

Parliamentary Corner Unanimous Consent

Unanimous Consent is a time-saving tool. When there is non-contentious, routine business to accomplish, the moderator may say: "If there is no objection, the motion passes." The moderator pauses, to allow for objection. If there is no objection, the moderator then says, "Hearing none [or hearing no objection], the motion passes."

If there is an objection, the moderator must state the motion, allow any debate, and put the question in the usual fashion.

Two points to note about unanimous consent:

1. Just because no one objects, it does not mean that every person agrees with the motion. Some may feel that it is useless to oppose or discuss the matter and they simply acquiesce.
2. Just because a person objects, it does not necessarily mean they are against the motion. That person may just feel that a formal vote is necessary.

Volunteer teams vital to reaching desert people group

By Rory Bennet

"God will do what He says He will do, and I want to be a part of it," Vera says with confidence. This confidence is forged from years of seeing victories from God's faithful hands at work among people who are resistant to the truth of the gospel. Vera works in one of the most desolate places, deep in the desert, where nearly the entire population is Muslim.

IMB missionary Vera must be strategic in how she works among the people, meeting practical needs to build relationships. In her city, the influence of Islam runs deep, and the truth of the gospel faces obstacles like disinterest, threat of persecution, and the difficulty of their physical proximity in the desert.

That is why Vera loves partnering with short-term mission teams. As more volunteers come, the more the people group she calls the Desert Dwellers have a chance to hear about Jesus and what He has done for them. She says she loves facilitating teams and watching in awe as both the plumbing and electrical systems, mission teams are sharing the love of Jesus and pointing the Desert Dwellers toward salvation through Christ.

"The Bible says every knee will bow; I want it to be because they know and love Him, not because they are going to hell," says Vera. There's a sense of urgency she hasn't sensed before. She believes the people she serves are ready to hear and respond to the gospel.

Vera may never know what tomorrow will bring in an area full of conflict and lostness, but each day she is ready to share the love of Jesus and bring more volunteer teams alongside her in the missionary task. Her labor is a testimony to God moving in the darkest places.

Short-term teams are an encouragement to Vera and other missionaries. If you are interested in sending a short-term team, write the IMB at info@imb.org. One trip can make the difference in someone hearing the gospel and having an opportunity to respond. One life, and sometimes many lives, can be transformed by your obedience to go. As a believer, you have the solution to the world's lostness. Will you help us to bring the gospel to the nations?

Even if you can't travel, please pray that the people God calls to go will answer the call, and they would be brokenhearted over the world's lostness.

Pray that those who have heard the gospel would choose to respond.

Pray for Vera as she serves among the lives of A couple rides a camel in the desert outside of Giza, Egypt. IMB Photo Desert Dwellers, that God would provide the Desert Dwellers and those who come and serve are changed. Every encounter with the truth of the gospel matters in a region where it may take decades for one person to accept Jesus as their Savior.

Vera explains that the Desert Dwellers are deeply grateful that outsiders would care for them. From making gospel-centered crafts to teaching English to installing for her practical needs and build new opportunities to share the truth through the short-term volunteers.

Some names may have been changed for security reasons.

Alaska's lone Hispanic church sees spiritual fruit in 'fertile soil'  By Timothy Cockes, posted November 15, 2022, in Church Planting, Ethnicity

Members of Rescate Church in Juneau, Alaska, the only Hispanic church in the state, dream of planting more churches to reach Alaska's growing Hispanic population.

JUNEAU, Alaska (BP) - Members of Rescate Church, the only Hispanic Southern Baptist Church in Alaska, have seen great spiritual fruit in the last couple of years and desire to continue growing their ministry by planting more Hispanic churches throughout the state.

Mario Morales, pastor of Rescate Church, told Baptist Press despite the church's essentially having to start over after the CO-VID-19 pandemic, the congregation has grown to 25 members and baptized seven people in the last year.

Beyond his family, Morales said most of the members of Rescate have come from a unique outreach - his job at Home Depot.

Morales is the only Spanish-speaker who works at the store, and therefore any Hispanic customer who needs help is sent to him. Many of the members of the church have come through these conversations and connections.

His job at Home Depot is not just an avenue to finance his ministry, it is a part of his ministry, Morales told BP.
"In September of 2020, the Lord blessed me to be able to start working at Home Depot, and that became the best evangelism strategy," he said.
"People are able to learn that I am a pastor as we have conversations. That is my evangelistic approach. If they were to take away my Home Depot job tomorrow, I would still go to Home Depot every week to buy a nail or something in order to interact with people and tell them about God."

The journey to Juneau for Morales and his family began while he was pastoring a church in Wichita Falls, Texas. Morales has been a pastor for almost 30 years

One day, a pastor friend showed him an article about the need for pastors in Alaska, and he began researching the demographics of the state, and learning why the need was so great.
"One of things that captured my attention was how difficult it is to find pastors who are willing to step up in this ministry when there are several hurdles, particularly financially," Morales said.
"I discovered the Hispanic population was a mission field. Seeing the need made me start praying that God would confirm that I needed to go."

According to U.S. Census data, just over 7 percent of Alaska's population is Hispanic, which is a higher percentage than southern states like Kentucky and Tennessee.

After a period of prayer and contemplation, Morales and his wife, Migdalia, contacted the North American Mission Board about starting a church in the state.

Pastor Mario Morales' methods for evangelism include his job at Home Depot and other unique ways of meeting people. "I won one gentlemen for Christ playing dominoes," he said.

NAMB reached out to the Alaska Baptist Resource Network, and Morales completed a few months of training. After the training, he moved to Alaska in late 2018 and launched Rescate ("Rescue") in 2019.

Morales soon discovered the social scene is very different in Alaska than in Texas. There's less going on. Most people are living there to focus on their work.
This caused Morales to rethink his ministry strategy and begin making connections in stores he knew people frequented. This eventually led to his job at Home Depot, which he started in 2020.

Rescate meets at the building of another Southern Baptist church, Glacier Valley, which partners with them and provides lunch to the congregation each week.

NAMB continues to support the church financially as it experiences spiritual growth.

Although he is very thankful for the baptisms and a growing membership, Morales said his ultimate vision is that Rescate would no longer be the only Hispanic church in the state.

The church desires to disciple people and raise them up to plant other churches to reach the growing Hispanic population. Morales even said he wants to eventually raise up the next leader of Rescate, so he can step away as pastor to instead focus on multiplying other churches.
"Church planting is my desire," he said. "We are hoping to expand to other cities like Anchorage, Fairbanks, Petersburg and other cities where there is a good number of Hispanics.
"The passion to see souls being brought to Christ is what encourages me and keeps me going. I feed the vision through prayer and intimacy with God, that keeps me focused on what God has told me to do."

Luis Lopez, executive director of Hispanic relations and mobilization for the SBC Executive Committee, first met Morales while attending the annual meeting of the Alaska Baptist Resource Network a few weeks ago.

Lopez said Morales thanked him for coming and told him he felt less alone as a Hispanic because he was there. Yet, Lopez said he was the one who felt uplifted by hearing about the great work God is doing through Morales and Rescate.
"It is encouraging to see a new church not only thinking about reaching the people in their own community, but being able to reach people with the purpose of training and sending them to other places in the state," Lopez said. "I think it's refreshing to see their passion to multiply and to be very intentional."

Morales urges other Hispanics to consider joining the ministry of Rescate in Alaska, and for Anglo churches to share in his passion for the lost in the state.
"I would tell people that they need to come to Alaska because it is a mission field where there is fertile soil, especially in Hispanic context," Morales said.
"I would pray that the Anglo church be awakened to the need and to capture the vision of the growing Hispanic population in Alaska."

We Have the Solution

Remarks by Paul Chitwood at an IMB Sending Celebration in Georgia:
[The] world's greatest problem is lostness. Lostness is eternal, and lostness is universal. The Bible teaches that, and clearly so, in Revelation 20.
"This chapter helps us understand that lostness is the only problem with eternal consequences," Chitwood said. "Every problem in your life that you experience ends when you die but one. The true magnitude of that problem will only be realized the moment you die."

Through Jesus, though, God solved this age-old problem of lostness.
"Your church exists to address the world's greatest problem. ... We're here to address the world's greatest problem," he said.

And while there are so many who have never heard the solution, "we're here because we know the solution, and we're here to share it," Chitwood added.

Because you give: Discipling the nations to disciple the nations

By Myriah Snyder

Because you give, missionaries and ministry partners started a thriving church in Debrecen, Hungary.

Because you give, an international church in Hungary is part of solving the world's greatest problem - lostness.

Because you give, we are truly reaching the nations, together.

In fact, International Baptist Church of Debrecen, a collaborative effort church plant between International Mission Board missionaries Gary and Carolyn Miller, national believ-

The beauty of this diversity is that the church can train and equip a missions force to get into places Americans can't go with an American passport - like the team the church is preparing to send on a short-term trip to help equip believers for special types of ministries in Africa.
"Our vision when we first came to Hungary was equipping Hungarians to go out to the nations," Gary said. "But then we looked around and the nations are coming here."

The Millers' vision for those who pass through their church ers and other Christian workers, has grown to reach 50 people each week.

In this international city, the church focuses on college students and young adults who come to Debrecen to make their home while studying. Around 37,000 students attend the University of Debrecen, which is one of the largest universities in the country. Nearly 7,000 are international students, making the city a ripe mission field. Many are working on graduate programs or Ph.Ds.

Even the leadership of the church is international, with Americans, Hungarians, an Ecuadorian and Nigerians serving together. Each week, the church can count 15 different nations represented in their attendees.

Gary and Carolyn Miller serve with the IMB in Hungary. Their heart is to see people in the international city in the international city where they serve equipped to take the gospel back to their own nations.

"You look in Revelation and you see that eventually we're all going to be gathered around the throne," Gary said. "Well, in our church we get just a little taste of that."

Thanks to the support of churches, like yours, who give to the Lottie Moon offering and Cooperative Program, the Millers can provide a steadfast missionary presence in this international city.
is lofty. But, with the prayers and financial support of people like you, it's becoming a reality.

Do you want to continue supporting the Millers and International Baptist Church? Give now and throughout the year at https://www.imb.org/generosity/.

Alaska, much like the ministry in Hungary, is filled with international peoples that come and go back to their respective countries. As we engage with different people groups here and as our mission teams come to minister alongside us in this unique environment, let us be ever aware of the reality that we are engaged in International Missions right here at home. In our churches, may we view our mission as one to train and equip those who will take the gospel all over the world!
